What Does It Mean To Be All You Can Be?

William James, the father of American psychology, said, "Most people live...in a very restricted circle of their potential...They make use of a very small portion of their possible consciousness..."

To "Be all you can be" is to demand more of yourself, to push yourself to do things you thought you could never do. By accomplishing them you become all you can be.

Army ROTC can add a unique dimension to your college education and contribute to your future success. You'll participate in the practical application of management techniques learned in the classroom. This practical application instills the maturity and self-confidence so important to advancement in the business world. It's known as the "Margin of Difference" and there is a brochure to describe it. It quotes Fortune 500 corporate leaders and tells how much they value Army ROTC experience. Get your FREE copy of "The Margin of Difference" from Army ROTC on your campus.

COMMENT

Are You A Passive Citizen?

Let's consider Salisbury State College a complete community, a small town, if you will. Each person, then, is a member of this community, and there are 4,000 of us here in the town of SSC. Needless to say, not everyone is involved in an extra-curricular, a civic, activity. Obviously, there is no community in which every person is involved in something, but theoretically, everyone should be.

There are civic, as well as private, groups that go begging every year. The PTA is a prime example. It seems as though PTAs everywhere struggle to get through the year with a few dedicated souls doing all the work. When June comes, the institution of the PTA has persevered. Still alive, but weak and gasping for life.

The PTA is just one example. Groups from charity organizations to local government also suffer the fate of operating under a handful of people. Many complaints about community groups stem from a leadership of either narrow or limited representation from the community. The granddaddy of this concept, of course, is an election, with a small percentage of the community voting, and the rest complaining.

If we are to think of SSC as a community, as indeed we should, then perhaps we ought to give more weight to participating in it. It doesn't really matter what contribution one makes, as long as he makes one. Some activities may be better suited than others for a person, and there is a gamut to choose from, as the Flyer tries to illustrate in the cover story this issue.

This Friday, Oct. 1, the first "Organization Expo" will be held on the mall in front of Caruthers Hall. The Expo will feature tables set up for each participating organization, where the groups will educate the campus community on what they offer. The Flyer would like to urge students to stop and talk to the representatives of the organizations, and take this opportunity to get involved with one.

Let's think of SSC as a small town; it's not so far fetched. Of course everyone leaves here after four (or so) years, but while a student is here, this really is his hometown. If we get involved in college, perhaps we will be in the habit of getting involved in community affairs after college. Maybe we can save the PTA, civic groups, local government...

Letters To The Editor

Bring Back Picnic Tables

As a Junior at SSC, I have become quite accustomed to some usual meeting, lunching, and study areas around the campus. One such area, which seems to have been abolished this semester, is the grass area between the dining hall and the college center. The picnic tables which were once available for our utilization have vanished. Instead, the tables have been crowded and confined to the vicinity behind the swimming pool where they are not only going unused, but are also invading a space where campus residents traditionally sun themselves.

I have hypothesized that the administration uprooted the tables from this location, so as to encourage occupation of benches in the newly built mall. Assuredly, this space is useful for the casual reader, luncheon or socializer, however it is impeding to anyone who wishes to write and spread about materials while enjoying the breeze and sunshine out-of-doors. These tables were also popular and commonly congregated when they were stationed in front of the dorms.

Let us "reseat" our table privileges. Please clear the pool of excessive clutter and disperse the tables throughout the campus, especially by the dining hall, where their convenience can be enjoyed.

Bellavance Thanked For Picnic

I think all the SSC summer employees who attended the crab feast and chicken barbeque Aug. 25th will agree that Dr. Bellavance was very generous and thoughtful for hosting such an event. In having the feast, Dr. Bellavance was showing his appreciation for the summer employees' good work. All invited who did not attend really missed out on delicious food, music by Gravelly Run and an all around good time. Thank you, Dr. Bellavance.

By Mike Hooks

Recently the State of Maryland passed legislation that limited the legal drinking age to those born before July 1, 1964. It is therefore illegal for those people to purchase or consume alcoholic beverages at all. If they do they are committing a crime.

Every weekend the students at SSC gather at local parties and nightclubs to entertain themselves. They go to such places for different reasons, usually to socialize, have a drink, maybe dance and generally have a good time. Few people go out intending to commit a crime.

But the students who are underaged may now be forced to do this to socialize with their school mates. In order for any of these people to enter a club they must have illegal identification or fraternize with the doorman into allowing them in.

Lisa Hinterleiter, an underaged 18-year-old on-campus student said, "I like to go where people are. Now I am forced to lie to get in."

Another underaged student who wished to remain nameless said, "It doesn't bother me, I've been recognized for a long time. I just walk in."

She is probably the exception. Many others are looking for fake identification or some way to get around the new law.

According to school statistics 68% of the student population is gone on the weekends, leaving the campus a virtual ghost town. Where does an underaged student go for entertainment or take a date? Banned from the local bars, this student would have to walk two miles to bowl or a mile and a half to rollerskate with 15-year-olds, walking home in the dark.

"I'd stay in my room and drink with friends," said Hinterleiter when asked what she'd do if forced to comply with the new law. "In a bar I could socialize more, in my room I would just get drunk."

Roughly nine percent of this year's student population will be segregated at social events by the new law, made to wear a different colored wrist banded at dances having alcohol. The same people who are able to vote in national election. The same people who would be tried and sentenced as adults by the courts if they had broken the law. No wonder many of these students feel there is an unfair incongruity in establishing the new alcohol law.

French Cooking Class

A French Cuisine cooking class will be offered by internationally known French chef Clement Rene Grangier. The class will be held from October 6 through November 10 from 12 to 2 p.m.

The art of French cooking along with menu planning, quantity cooking, and all aspects of cuisine and gastronomy will be introduced to the class. Individual interests will also be taken into consideration. For more information, contact the Office of Continuing Education at SSC, (301) 546-3261 (ext. 321)

Rob Sweetgall

On Monday, October 4, at 7 p.m. in Caruthers Auditorium, long distance runner Rob Sweetgall will give a lecture/slide presentation on cardiovascular health. He will discuss personal exercise training programs, nutrition's role in athletic performance and "risk factors" associated with cardiovascular disease.

Student Teaching Tests

If you plan to student teach in the Spring of 1983, you must take the Education Department Competency Tests. These tests will be given during September and October in Education 300, 304, 305, and 306 classes. If you are not enrolled in one of these classes this semester, please plan to take the tests in General Sessions in the Education Department. General sessions will be held as follows:

September 23, 3:30-5:30 p.m. - Reading and Writing, Part I - CH-122
September 28, 3:30-5:30 p.m. - Reading and Writing, Part I and II, CH-122
September 30, 3:30-5:30 p.m. - Writing, Part I and II, CH-122

Computer Center Hours

The Data Processing Department would like to announce the computer center's hours for the fall semester. The hours of operation will be as follows:

Monday-Friday 8:30 a.m.-11:30 p.m.
Saturday 9:00 a.m.-11:30 p.m.
Sunday to be announced

From Monday through Friday there will be monitors on duty, at most times, during the hours of operation to help with programming questions. On Saturday and Sunday the student operator will also serve as a monitor, if time allows.

Art Gallery Hours

Art Gallery hours for Fall '82 will be as follows:

Sunday 10 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Monday 10 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Tuesday 12:30 p.m. - 10 p.m.
Wednesday 10 a.m. - 12 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. - 10 p.m.
Thursday 11 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Friday 10 a.m. - 8 p.m.
Saturday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Della Marshall- (Chester/Choptank) Choptank Office (ext. 242)

Lifeguarding Classes Offered

Salisbury State College will offer a non-credit course in "lifeguarding" from September 27 to December 13. Classes will be held Monday evenings, 7-9 p.m. at the Maggs Physical Activities Center pool on the campus of SSC. For further information, contact the office of continuing Education at (301) 546-3261, (ext. 321.)

Senior Portraits

Senior portraits will be taken October 25 through 29. Staggered times will be arranged in order to accommodate rigid schedules and other conflicts. All portraits will be taken in the Nanticoke Room of the College Center.

Pre-Business Orientation

All new pre-business majors, or persons considering pre-business as major should attend the orientation meeting on Friday, October 1 at 2:30 p.m. If you are unable to attend this session, report to Holloway Hall room 302, by October 1, and give the BUAD/ECON secretary your name and receive appropriate materials.

Parents and Spouses Day

Salisbury State College's Ninth Annual Parents and Spouses Day is scheduled for October 16, 1982. The Planning Committee has put together an exciting program which includes participation by the administration, faculty, ROTC, Dance Company and the Theatre Department.

Student Aid Restored

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS)

Congress' override of President Reagan's veto of a "budget busting" appropriations bill will add some $217 million to two student aid programs this year.

The Pell Grant program will have an additional $140 million to distribute to students, and the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program will get an extra $77 million.

President Reagan originally vetoed the appropriations bill which totalled $14.2 billion for a variety of programs, including student aid—because it spent too much on social programs, too little on defense programs, and would be a "budget busting" measure, he said in his veto message.

But Congress, in handing the president one of his few legislative defeats since assuming office, overrode the veto Sept. 10th.

Even with the additional funds, the total federal student aid budget for fiscal year 1982 is some eight percent lower than the 1981 fiscal year budget.

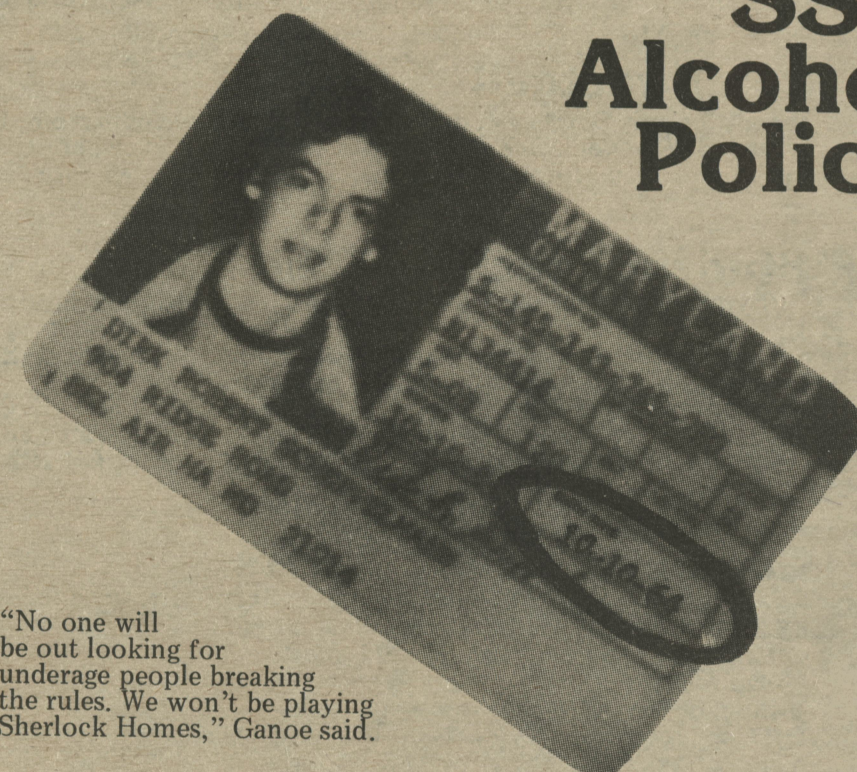

Governor Visits SSC

Shortly after 2 p.m. last Wednesday, Governor Harry Hughes, candidate for re-election arrived at Salisbury State College in front of Holloway Hall to tour the newly-painted auditorium and to greet students as they changed classes. The governor, surrounded by an entourage of body-guards and other aides, began shaking hands and indulging in light conversation with students. He didn't resist the opportunity to make a brief comment. The question: "Governor, why should an SSC student vote for you?"

His answer: "My record. We've upgraded the state's resources and made use of many of them. We've kept the state in the black for four years. I've had to deal with this 'New Federalism' which is actually less money. Also because of my deep concern for education."

Drinking Law Changes SSC Alcohol Policy

"No one will be out looking for underage people breaking the rules. We won't be playing Sherlock Holmes," Ganoe said.

Due to the State of Maryland passing legislation to raise the legal age for consuming alcohol to 21, Salisbury State College has made some changes in its Alcohol Beverage Policy.

David Ganoe, director of the College Center and chairman of the Alcohol Policy and Education Committee, said this year will be a gradual transition. "The only drastic change on campus is the number of underage people," he said.

There are 300 to 400 underage students on campus this semester, a figure that is expected to more than double next year.

A few of the noticeable changes are the elimination of BYOBs, the stress on carrying valid campus ID's and the wrist bracelet system at campus events.

Upon entry to the welcome back dance, students were fitted with wrist bracelets if they were born on or before June 30, 1964. Those born after that date did not receive a wrist bracelet, and were therefore barred from purchasing or consuming beer. Ganoe said the first dance this year went "pretty well."

He said he is not sure what, if any changes would be made next year. Ganoe said "that depends on how this year goes." He said the Homecoming and Spring Formal dances would be evaluated as well as other activities to determine if any further changes in the drinking policy need be considered.

He did venture to say that he thinks many events in the coming years will be dry "by forfeit." He explained that since the large percentage of students attending an activity will not be able to drink, the activities will naturally evolve into dry ones.

Ganoe said he thinks the raise in the drinking age is going to cause more problems than good. "People are going to attempt to smuggle it in and we may even see a resurgence of drug usage. Ganoe said it was apparent some people drank alcohol before arriving at the dance.

"We may find it harder to fill student leader spots, too," said Ganoe. With the new responsibility of underage students attending activities, student officers may become harder to find, especially since student leaders are legally liable.

A meeting was held over the summer to discuss punishments for students who commit minor infractions on the alcohol policy. Ganoe summed up the committee's consensus in a recent interview. "No one will be out looking for underage people breaking the rules. We won't be playing Sherlock Holmes," he said.

The committee said rooms in the residence halls would not be searched for alcohol, but that offenders will probably identify themselves by exhibiting behavioral problems.

Minor infractions on the college's policy will be dealt with by the on-site administrator. "We don't want to over-burden the judicial system," one administrator cannot handle the situation it will be referred to a higher authority.

Souther Receives SGA Scholarship

By Antonia Cima

Freshman Renie Souther is the first recipient of the new Salisbury State College Student Government Association Scholarship. The scholarship was instituted last spring by the SGA, who funds the award with money from the interest made from an invested SGA carry over fund of $10,000. The carry over fund is SGA money that is not appropriated, but kept for an emergency.

The minimum applicant qualifications are combined SAT scores of 1,000 with a verbal score of 500, as well as a high school grade point average of 3.00.

As long as she maintains a 3.0 average, Souther will continue to receive the full tuition scholarship for four years. Although the scholarship is granted only for academic merit and extracurricular activities, Souther said she was experiencing financial difficulties.

She had already decided to attend S.S.C. even before she applied for the scholarship. In fact, Souther did not find out she had won until September, after she had paid her tuition.

Souther said she chose S.S.C. because she had heard of its reputation for having "friendly students, nice dorms and good food." However, the most important feature was Salisbury's small size.

Her home is in Harford County where she attended Bel Air High School. There she became involved in many extracurricular activities such as editor of the paper, year book, cheerleading, SGA and Intramurals.

Her academic achievements are just as impressive. Souther was a member of the honor society, and was in the top five percent of her class. She plans to continue her active life here at S.S.C. by joining the school paper, yearbook, SGA, Honors Committee, and Honors Student Organization. She said she will major in English.

Souther said the most important aspect of the scholarship is what it has done for her life and college career. She said, "Leaving home wasn't easy. Through winning the scholarship I came to know more people than I would have done without it. Having someone to say 'hi' to makes being on your own a more pleasant experience."

Club Kick-Offs Praised

By Carol J. Kirby

During the week of Sept 6th the office of the Dean of Students, along with other campus departments and student organizations, sponsored programs and events to kick off the 1982-83 academic year.

The program was planned in order for new students to become acquainted with Salisbury State.

Monday and Tuesday the football team, who were coordinated by coach Mike McGlinchy, were on hand to help students move into their dorms. Monday they assisted approximately 309 people and Tuesday about 80.

Some of the events and programs included during the week were bike tours, and a jog for fun. Three movies were also shown, "The Howling," "Cannon Ball Run," and "Chariots of Fire". The Pub was scheduled to open Monday, September 6, but due to the lack of trained employees, it opened Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Vincent D. Leisey, associate director of the College Center, student organizations and programs, felt the program was very successful. He said, though, that he would like more student organizations involved in sponsoring these events.

The policy on campus is strict but does allow for drinking in the dorms. The Campus Security said they don't raid dorm rooms as a matter of routine, centering their attention on violators who walk around the campus with unsealed alcoholic beverages.

On-campus students are really not bothered unless they are behaving in a loud or disorderly manner.

This doesn't make the campus a free-for-all. At official events the students will be banded with a plastic, color-coded wrist tag to prevent underage students from drinking or purchasing alcohol. This will segregate these students from their peers. What legal or psychological problems this may cause is as yet unknown.

The students will be at least juniors before they are able to drink at any of the student functions or night clubs. Dry Homecomings and Spring Formals may become realities.

And drugs? Will their usage fill the alcohol void for underage students? Jim Phillips, when asked about this possibility, said "Drugs were always illegal that's deterrent. People could obtain a legal drug, alcohol, before, but now to these underage people drugs and alcohol are both illegal. This should be a deterrent for both. If it isn't, that's because they are both misdemeanors, which is not a strong deterrent." Draw your own conclusions.

Flyer To Poll Students

The Flyer staff will be visiting students in the residence halls between Tuesday, Sept. 28 and Oct. 5 taking surveys on student opinions about various policies on campus. Your cooperation will be greatly needed and appreciated, as these matters are very important. Thanks for helping!

A Guide To SSC Organizations

Like on many other campuses, student organizations at Salisbury State College have some problems recruiting new members. Communication between organizations and the students may be one of the major problems. In an effort to open some of the communication channels, the office of student organizations and programs is initiating an "Organization Expo," which will be held this Friday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on the mall in front of Caruthers Hall.

Participating organizations will set up tables in a bazaar-like setting, disseminating information about their particular organizations. Handouts and buttons may be given out by the groups, and each may display a banner, which will be judged in a competition.

To give students information about some of the organizations on campus, and to supplement any knowledge they gain from the Expo, here is a guide to clubs and organizations:

The Alpha Omega Biological Society is open to all students interested in biology. It features speakers, socials, field trips and fund raisers.

Joe Rowan, SSPB Chairman

Contact student: Pam Kelley, or William Grogan, Rm. 139, Devilbiss Hall.

The Baptist Student Ministries is a Christian group that is open to all students and features fellowship, Bible studies, retreats, mission and service projects.

Contact student: Peggy Mulane or Lynn Davis, 641-4348.

The Black Student Union sponsors various activities, promotes a better relationship among all people, and attunes the college to the needs of Blacks and other minorities.

Contact student: Rita Washington, Rm. 108, Tawes Hall.

Rita Washington, BSU President

B'nai B'rith Hillel promotes Jewish culture and social activities within the campus community. Contact: Harold Schaffer, Rm. 143, Holloway Hall.

The Business and Economics Society is for students interested in business and economics. It offers professional and social activities. Contact student: John Yamnicky, Rm. 107-B, Tawes Hall.

The Campus Crusade for Christ is an interdenominational Christian movement that provides for fellowship, Bible studies, retreats and conferences.

The Christian Couples Fellowship is a specialized group of the Baptist Student Ministries. Couples discuss ways to a meaningful marriage. Contact: Jerome Lake, Rm. 301, Holloway Hall.

Circle K is a service organization involved in community concerns. Contact student: Bonnie Shively, Rm. 126, Tawes Hall.

Circulo Quijote provides for advanced study of Spanish culture. Contact student: Joyce Groton, William Palmer, Rm. 383, Holloway Hall.

The Communication Advisory Board deals with problems of the publication organizations of the college. Contact student: Ray Chin, Rm. 102, Tawes Hall.

The English Club's purpose is to coordinate projects to foster friendships and to make the English Department more relevant to the needs of the college. Contact student: Joe Taylor, or Mary Gay Calcott, Rm. 344, Holloway Hall.

The Episcopal Campus Ministries provides a church family for students who are away from home. Social and religious events are offered on campus.

The Evergreen Yearbook is a collection of pictures and anecdotes to serve as a history or reference book. Students produce the book themselves. Contact student: Debbie Vincent, Rm. 119, Tawes Hall.

The Flyer Newsmagazine informs the campus of news and upcoming events. It is run entirely by students. Contact student: Sue McGee, Rm. 102, Tawes Hall.

The Institute for Retired Persons helps develop programs for older students. It encourages learning at a leisurely pace with a peer-teacher for encouragement.

The Medical Careers Club is for students considering careers in nursing, medicine, dentistry, veterinary work, or one of the other health fields.

Contact student: Mary Lou Phillips, or Augustine Digiovanna, Rm. 237, Holloway Hall.

The Musical Ensembles are for students interested in the college chorus, chamber choir, SSC band or Jazz Band.

New Faces on Coaching Staff

It's "the largest turnover ever," said Athletic Director Deane Deshon referring to the many new faces appearing in the SSC coaching staff this season. Along with a new football head coach, the volleyball, field hockey, wrestling, lacrosse, and men's cross-country teams will be seeing changes.

In her first year here at SSC, Karen Weaver takes control as head field hockey and women's lacrosse coach. Weaver, an all-American goalkeeper from Lock Haven State College, and alternate to the U.S. field hockey team, will also be an instructor for the SSC physical education department.

Taking over the Seagull volleyball team for Arden Peck, who is on sabbatical, will be Jeanie Davis. Also in her first year here, Davis shows up with a strong background. A graduate of Guilford College with a degree in physical education and biology, she was a member of the

Athletic Director—Deane Deshon

North Carolina State University championship volleyball team in 1976.

Dr. Donald Cathcart continues his position as coach of the women's cross-country team, but now extends his expertise to the men's team as well. Cathcart, an associate professor in mathematics, is a graduate of the University of Hawaii and received his Doctorate of Education from Indiana University.

Gerry DiBartolo, after serving as assistant coach since 1979, gets his chance as head coach of the soccer team this season. DiBartolo, an instructor in the business administration and economics department, succeeds Dr. Keith Connors, who will remain with the team in an administrative capacity.

The vacancy in the wrestling department will be filled by Matt Hawes, a graduate of Springfield College and two-time all-American. Hawes served as assistant wrestling coach at Springfield while working on a graduate assistantship in the office of public relations.

Controlling the Sea Gull grid-iron this season is Mike McGlinchey, last year's assistant head coach and wrestling mentor. Entering his eleventh year at SSC, McGlinchey graduated from the University of Delaware where he played football, baseball, and wrestled.

Hank Janczyk will serve as defense coordinator for McGlinchey. in football as well as taking over the men's lacrosse team. An all-American football player from Hobart College, Janczyk has served on the coaching staff for both football and lacrosse at Albany State College, Hobart and St. Lawrence University.

Wing-T is Working Well For Gulls

The expression "The offense sells tickets but the defense wins the games" may be especially true for first year head Coach Mike McGlinchey's Salisbury State Sea Gulls.

The SSC attack will feature the Wing-T this year, an offense which has proven extremely successful for McGlinchey's alma mater, the University of Delaware. But the Wing-T is a very sophisticated offense system which relies on delicate placement and split second timing. "It's a great offense," said McGlinchey, "but it does take time to develop," he cautioned.

So at least in the early going, the Gulls may rely heavily on their experienced defense. It's an experienced crew that sports this defensive roster: 10 lettermen, nine of which are upperclassmen including two out of the three elected captains.

Hank Janczyk is the defense coordinator. Although this is his first year with the Gulls, Janczyk has put in time on the coaching staffs at Hudson Valley Community College, Albany State, Hobart College and St. Lawrence University. McGlinchey lauds Janczyk's coach/player rapport as well as his philosophy of the game.

Bryce Cox is serving his second year as defense line coach for the Gulls. An excellent player and wrestler, Cox's forte as technician is hard to surpass.

Ed DiFederico takes charge of the defensive ends this year. DiFederico has worked previously with both the SSC defensive line and the linebackers. Bringing over 20 years of high school coaching experience with him to SSC this year is Denny Donaldson. Donaldson will be working with the Gull linebackers.

Soccer Team Looks Young

By Keith Rhine

The 1982 soccer season is here, and the Gulls are ready to do whatever it takes to have a successful year. Despite the loss of five players from last year's 8-6-2 squad, first year Head Coach Gerry DiBartolo feels his SSC soccer team has "the potential to have a very successful season."

"We are young and relatively inexperienced," says DiBartolo, "And we don't have a lot of depth. But if we avoid injuries and the ball bounces our way a few times, we should be a highly competitive team."

Strategically, DiBartolo says he will emphasize moving the ball downfield quickly and using the whole width of the field. "We will play the ball wide, down the sidelines," said DiBartolo, "not just bang it into the middle of the field. That should keep the opposing defenses spread, giving us the opportunity to penetrate."

This year's team is lead by captains Kent Miles and Chris Romett. Both are seniors. Miles, a four letter winner, plays the back defender position, to pace this year's team, so a number of freshmen are expected to see plenty of playing time.

The Gulls have a tough schedule this year, which features teams like Glassboro State, Elizabethtown, UMBC, and Frostburg State. "If we can get through the month of September with a .500 record or better, we should be in real good

With two returning seniors and nine underclassmen playing together for the first time, new coach Jennie Davis hopes to have a respectable season while her girls gain experience as a team.

Ms. Davis is at the Seagull helm while Arden Peck is on sabbatical. "Winning, at least initially, is not a priority," comments Davis. "We have nine people who are underclassmen, so we're all approaching this season as a building one. We're also reaching for something extra; our biggest challenge will be to see how well we can do since our team is untested and untried."

Co-captains for this year's squad are seniors Norma Harrison and Kim Hunter. Harrison, a 5'3" Luthian, Maryland product, is the team's lone setter in their 5-1 system. Hunter, a 5'5" senior from Laurel, Maryland, is a natural floor leader with good quickness and strong defense.

Also returning from last year's team are sophomores Cathy Cannon and Lynise De Vance. Rounding out the starting lineup are freshmen Liz O'Malley and Robyn Donahue. Leslie Paul adds last year's experience to the squad. Also in reserve for the Seagulls are freshmen Mary Beth Bruce, Kim Funk, Teresa Long, and Cara Moriarty.

In the SSC Mini-Invitational, September 11, the Seagulls were victorious over both Gallaudet College and Glassboro State. The Seagulls placed sixth out of eight teams at the Mansfield Invitational held September 17 and 18.

New People, New Innovations, and New Plays for SSC Theatre

By Kris Nystrom

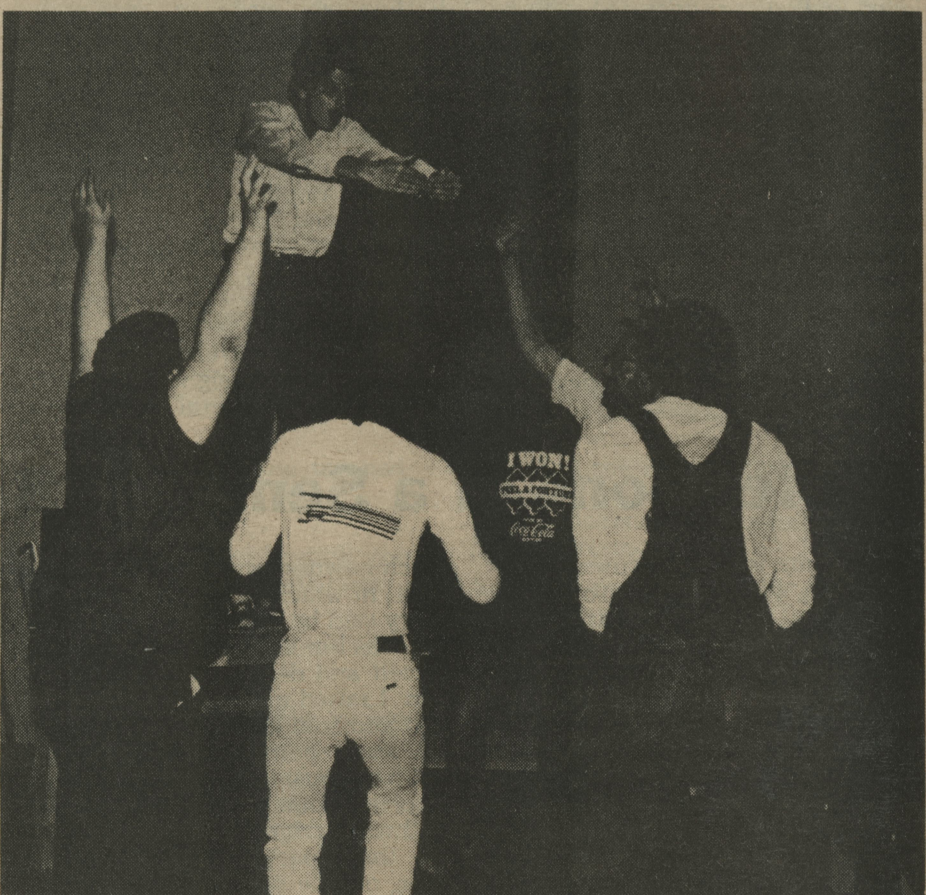

Refreshing seems to be an appropriate adjective for the college's theatre this season. In addition to extensive renovations to the Holloway Hall auditorium, the theatre has a new director, Dr. Andrew Hepburn. He received his B.A. from Goddard College in Vermont, his M.A. from Northwestern, and his Ph.D. from the University of Washington in Seattle. The experience he brings with him includes directing plays and teaching acting, movement and voice at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

Dr. Hepburn will launch the season with One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest which was adapted by Dale Wasserman from the popular novel by Ken Kesey. The play centers on an explosive character named R.P. Murphy, played by Jeff Perry, who has cleverly avoided prison work by entering a mental institution. However, he realizes his mistake when he learns that not only is his sentence indefinite, but his aggressive personality clashes with the strict disciplinarian, Nurse Ratched, portrayed by Sharon Bowersox.

McMurphy quickly overtakes the hospital with an uncanny ability to lead other inmates out of their introversion, a feat reputable doctors were unable to achieve. This leadership is stifled by Nurse Ratched's excessive punishments, though, culminating in a frontal lobotomy for McMurphy. To avoid a vegetable life, McMurphy plots his own death.

Like mixing a catalyst with an unstable chemical compound, this melodrama provides an exciting evening of action and energy as it will be performed at 8:30 p.m. on October 22, 23, 28, 29, and 30. There will be a 2:30 p.m. matinee on the 24th. Ticket prices have not changed! $3.75 for adults, $2.75 for high school students and senior citizens, and $1 for college students.

Rehearsal in progress for "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest"

Coming Attractions

On November 12, 13, 14, 18, 19, and 20, four short productions will be presented on the Holloway Hall Black Box Stage. Two pieces will be directed by Dr. Wesley, one by Dr. McCarthy, and a final piece handled by Dr. Hepburn. From James Joyce's book, The Dubliners, comes "The Boardinghouse." A poem by Amy Lowell entitled "That Was the Day that Was" will be performed. The Sandbox, by absurdist Edward Albee and finally the hilariously absurd play by Eugene Ionesco, The Bald Soprano will be performed.

We are also looking forward to a Children's Theatre production in the beginning of December, a theatrical rendition by the Sophanes organization in the spring, and that classic Shakespearean tragedy,

Romeo and Juliet, in May.

New people, new innovations, new plays. Fill your calendars with Salisbury State Theatre's fresh and exciting season.

UMES Concert Band to perform at SSC

The talented and widely known UMES Concert Band will present a two-hour concert at Salisbury State College at 8 p.m. on October 14, 1982 in the Holloway Hall Auditorium.

This program is being sponsored by the Black Student Union at SSC and is open to the public without charge. This 21-piece musical organization will perform under the direction of Professor Kenneth A. Martin, Sr., the director of bands at UMES.

The featured guest artist of this band is Kenneth A. Martin, Jr., who is a very distinguished pianist, having studied for several years under some of the most outstanding piano teachers in the country. He has also won a scholarship to study next year at the great Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

Foot stompin', good cloggin', country music at the Gull's Nest

Although most of the local night club managers are skittish about hiring a bluegrass band in their lounges during these hard economic times, Gravelly Run has still managed to make a name for itself in the Salisbury area. The group has played numerous civic and private functions here and their performance at the Gull's Nest on Oct. 2 will mark their fifth time at SSC in recent months.

Carmen DiSylvestro, manager of the Gull's Nest, describes Gravelly Run as "Foot stompin', good cloggin' country music."

Cloggers from the SSC dance company plan to highlight the Oct. 2 performance with their own choreographed numbers. They also plan to choose partners from the audience and teach them a few steps together. This arrangement proved to be an effective crowd pleaser at a recent convention in Ocean City.

Gravelly Run is lucky that club managers in other areas take a different attitude toward them as opposed to those in Salisbury. The band recently returned from a six day road trip into central Pennsylvania, where they played near Penn State University and the Adirondack mountains in upstate New York. The day after they returned they did a taping session for WBOC TV's "Focus" program which airs on Saturdays at 6 p.m. The group can be found playing regularly at night spots in Rehoboth Beach, St. Michaels, Denton and Dover.

"It's strange how the club owners in other areas really go for us while the ones in our home town practically ignore us," says one band member. "I guess it's the mystique of being from some place far away."

The band's music sometimes goes rather far away from traditional bluegrass. The group plays a couple of songs by Hoagy Carmichael such as "Stardust" and, as a tribute to Ray Charles, "Georgia on my Mind." The group also experiments with elements of funk music in a couple of numbers. Despite going off the wall for a few pieces, Gravelly Run tends to play material from the early classic bluegrass bands such as Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass Boys, the Stanley Brothers, Flatt and Scruggs, and the Carter Family. The group also does several original tunes from an album Steve Quillen recorded four years ago with his previous group Cantwell & Quillen. The song "April Snow" from that album can still be heard on various country and bluegrass stations around the Baltimore and Washington D.C. areas.

As in the past, the Flyer will try to keep an accurate schedule of what movies and/or films will be showing in the Salisbury area during the semester. However, due to the public's response to some films, area theatres may hold over or discontinue certain films; therefore, this guide is to be considered just that—a guide. For further information regarding local listings, prices, and showtimes, call the theatres involved. Otherwise, on-campus film schedule changes will be announced as soon as the Flyer receives them.

Here, then, is the schedule for the films to be shown on campus this semester:

DATE	TITLE	WHERE
10/1	Ghost Story	HH Aud.
10/8	Blow Out	HH Aud.
10/15	Animal House	HH Aud.
10/22	Body Heat	HH Aud.
10/29	It Came From Outer Space	DSH Aud.

	HOURS TO WAIT

As you consume alcohol, your blood alcohol content (BAC) increases-and so do your chances of having an accident. Keep this cut-out guide in your wallet to help you drive safely. Find your weight and match it with the number of drinks consumed. The number inside the box is how many hours you must wait to drive. For example, a 160-lb. man who's had three drinks must wait two hours. Note: This guide does not apply when any drugs or medication are used, or if the person has an illness.

Your guests
should enjoy the party.
Even when it's over.

No matter how much fun the cocktail hour is, don't let it drag on for hours.

And liquor isn't everyone's cup of tea. So always have soft drinks and fruit juices on hand. Make sure that everyone knows his limit, and encourage him to observe it.

That way, your party will be a happy occasion for you and your guests. Even when it's over.

We, the makers and sellers of distilled spirits, don't just ask that you drink our products sensibly.

We ask that you serve them sensibly.

If you choose to drink, drink responsibly.
